

“Religion that God our Father accepts as pure and faultless is this: to look after orphans and widows in their distress”

James 1:27a

“God sets the lonely in families” Psalm 68:6a

Jake* was the “parent”, despite being only seven. Caleb, four, was kept in a pushchair, wasn’t toilet-trained and didn’t have enough clothing. The boys slept on the floor and didn’t know when they would next eat. They saw things that children should never be allowed to see, and were fighting for their survival. They were given a fresh start when Peter and Jenny became their foster parents.

It’s hard to find foster carers like Peter and Jenny. It is difficult to place siblings, particularly those like Jake and Caleb, who were suffering from severe neglect and trauma. But Peter and Jenny understood the importance of keeping the brothers together, and, with the support of their church and their wider family, felt able to become their permanent carers. When Jake and Caleb arrived at their house, they were small, wide-eyed and weary. Years later, the boys are healthy, smile spontaneously, have friends, and are catching up at school. A home for good has changed their lives.

Why are children in care?

Sometimes it isn’t safe for a child to live with their birth parents. If home is chaotic, traumatic, abusive or neglectful, it may be necessary for a child to be looked after by someone else. Sometimes this is just for a while, or every so often, and they return to their families. Sometimes they need a new forever family. It’s the job of a local authority to make these decisions and make sure that children are safe.

Fostering provides a short or long-term home for children who are unable to live with their birth parents but are usually able to maintain contact with them.

Adoption is the legal process through which a child becomes a full, permanent member of a new family.

Did you know that in the UK...

...4,000 children are waiting for adoption?

...9,000 foster families are urgently needed?

...40% of fostered teenagers are living with their third family since coming into care?

What we do - Our vision is a home for every child who needs one.

Home for Good launched as a charity in 2014 to raise awareness of the need for foster carers and adoptive parents, encourage families to provide loving homes for the children in care, and equip the Church to offer a community of support for them.

You can make a difference for children in care!

By raising money for Home for Good, you become part of a nationwide movement passionate about helping children in care.

£25 could respond to someone through our enquiry line to support them on their journey towards providing a loving home for a child.

£50 could help train a volunteer champion to raise the profile of adoption and fostering in their church.

£75 could go towards setting up a peer-led support group for foster carers and adoptive parents.

£250 could help hold an event to help people take their first steps towards fostering or adopting a child.

£500 could train a group of children's and youth workers to support children with experience of care.

£1,000 could provide resources and training for a new local Home for Good group.

£2,000 could produce a film to encourage tens of thousands of people to foster or adopt and support children in care.

Pray with us

Lord, thank you that you created us as unique individuals, in your image and likeness. Thank you that you adopted us into your family, to make us your sons and daughters. Thank you that you care for us and promise to never leave us.

We pray for the children and young people whose birth parents are unable to care for them or who are missing their parents. We ask that you would meet their needs and that they would know your love.

Jesus, we thank you that in your life on earth you cared for children and people who were vulnerable. Please help us become more like you: help us to be full of compassion, to be generous to those around us, and to take care of people who are vulnerable or overlooked.

How will you do your miles?

Check out these tried and tested ideas for your challenge...

Challenge scale Okay:  Tricky:  Challenging:

IDEA 1: Marathon of madness.

Cover as many miles as you can - with a twist of your choice!

Covering a mile a day for 26 days, Hannah's 'Marathon of Madness' involved everything from fancy dress to roller-skating, and raised an incredible £642.08!

Hannah says, "I love Home for Good and everything it stands for – without it, my family would look very different – so I wanted to raise money to help them inspire more people to do something to care for vulnerable children.

I decided to do something a bit silly that I'd never normally do, and hopefully get lots of interest from people following the madness on Facebook! Turns out that standing at the front of church in a fancy dress outfit is a great way to raise money!"

IDEA 2: The mile count.

Cover miles over a few weeks or month.

A recent count showed that there were 1252 looked after children in Leeds. Over a month Lou and Anna each walked 125.2 miles to raise money for Home for Good.

Lou says, "We originally planned to walk 1252 miles in a month – but realised it was a bit unrealistic! We found that using the number was still helpful, and something people could really get behind, so 125.2 miles became a focussed, meaningful challenge. We used social media to keep momentum throughout the month.

I am passionate about the vision of Home for Good. As a foster carer and community worker, I see the difficulties of many children's lives and want to throw my support into giving children the potential to flourish."

Tip: Find out how many children in care there are in your area, and walk that number of miles.

IDEA 3: The endurance test.

Test your stamina with a distance challenge.

James and his wife cycled 106 miles from their home in Edinburgh to Glasgow – and back – on a friend's tandem, raising a total of £1,504.29!

James says, "Our tandem bike ride was one of the hardest things I've ever done. But it was worth it to know we were making a difference in the lives of children in care, and families that foster and adopt."

Tip: Take part in an organised endurance event. Search online to find a 10k, a marathon or a triathlon near you.

Money matters

Collecting sponsorship:

JustGiving: Set up a page for your challenge at www.justgiving.com/homefor-good and encourage people to give online. It's easy to set up. Just Giving sends the donations directly to us and automatically claims Gift Aid on donations – giving an extra 25% to support vulnerable children at no extra cost to you or your supporters!

Sponsorship forms: Use forms to track pledges and collect cash. Note: if you're dealing with cash, keep it safe, and make a note of the running total. Two people should count the cash. Don't forget to send us all the sponsorship forms so we can claim Gift Aid on eligible donations!
